A POSITIVE APPROACH TO LOSING

By Peter Schwab

Sometimes you watch AFL football and you can't help but think one side has no chance of beating another and the interest is how the team not expected to win approaches the game from a tactical and psychological aspect.

Publicly there is never a suggestion of not being able to win. There is always a slightly positive spin put out by the least favoured team based around such statements as 'if we play at our best and their below their best' or 'football is a funny game and anything can happen'. In many ways this is true and one of the beauties of sport is the upset victory.

This leads me onto another interesting topic to do with junior football and that is what happens when matches of football at junior level become lop-sided?

In professional sport winning is all that matters and winning by a lot helps when percentage is important. But in junior sport you have to argue do you press home the advantage or do you take advantage of the situation and make it fairer to both teams?

Whether grading is the sole answer is debatable, but whatever else we can do to create competitions which allow all teams to experience some success is, in my view, incredibly important.

If you are playing in a team which is thrashed every week then it becomes a disincentive for those footballers to either stay at that Club, or worse still, stay in the game. It tests coaches to make those children on the end of heavy defeats to have an involvement which is enjoyable.

They need to ensure training is enjoyable and the players are improving their skills and team play.

Everyone should be able to experience some success, even if it is at training.

It's impossible for a losing coach to do much. He could flood back and try and clog the opposition's forward line, but that isn't what we should be teaching them. So we need action from the coach of a dominant team.

Do they or their team really want to win easily? Maybe the coach could start by asking their players what they think. They may be surprised by their players' response.

A coach could change player's playing positions, so those who normally don't get on the forward line or in the midfield can. Those young players who tend to dominate can be tried elsewhere to learn a different role.

The coach can get the team to try new things, such as rotating players to new positions, setting purely defensive objectives, substituting their strongest players or playing numerically short. They state it is important to exercise compassion for the other team.

People will tell me losing is a part of life, but football isn't life. It is sport and a chance to have fun. Losing is a part of the game, but being thrashed does not serve any purpose for the winners or losers.

We need to remember that long term involvement is the key and playing sport no matter how competitive needs to be enjoyable, particularly for children who are coming into the game for the first few years, which are the most critical in determining whether they will continue in the sport.

OUR JUNIOR ELITE

Two Local Umpires Selected For National Championships

Training sessions, team selection, and match-day preparations are all run-of-the-mill circumstances in virtually any corner of the footy world. However they are all commonly associated with players, coaches and even medical staff, but rarely umpires. Even in the WRFL umpires are subject to rigorous training sessions and tough selection panels just to make it out onto the field - which therefore makes the success of two of our junior umpires, Stefan Bjelosevic and Melanie Thompson-Allen, even more remarkable. Both Bjelosevic and Thompson-Allen have been selected to represent Victoria at the 2011 Australian Schools Championships, becoming two of only six umpires from across the state to be selected for this nationwide event.

At sixteen years of age, Stefan Bjelosevic is a veteran in the field of umpiring. This is his fifth year in the job, having started when he was twelve, and it will be his second year representing Victoria at the National Championships. Although he has never been a serious footballer himself, he was a long-time volunteer umpire at his brother's Auskick clinic.

"The coach in charge suggested that I take it (umpiring) up as a pastime," says Bjelosevic.

"I was a bit hesitant at first, but when he provided me the number of the WRFL Umpiring Association manager the following week, I decided to give it a go, and haven't looked back since!"

Melanie Thompson-Allen, also sixteen, comes from a polar opposite sporting background to AFL. Having been a ballerina for ten years, Thompson-Allen decided to give umpiring a go when her friend's dad talked her into going into umpire training because they were short on females (when she started there were only three female boundary umpires in the WRFL).

Thompson-Allen, a boundary umpire, and Bjelosevic, a field umpire, train two nights a week at Scovell Reserve with the WRFL Umpires' Association, which include skill and theory sessions. Additionally they conduct their own cardio sessions, even during the off-season between September and February, meaning that between official and unofficial training sessions as well as weekend match days, it's practically a seven-day job. In the lead up to the Championships their training load will increase, to include extra strength and fitness programs, as well as technical training, to ensure that they can handle almost any potential circumstance of play.

Thompson-Allen thinks many people would be surprised at the level of fitness required of a boundary umpire. Although on the surface it appears their main job is to determine how the ball came to be over the thin white line, at her first training session she found that she was in for a lot more than she bargained for.

"When fitness coach Terry McGarity said we were doing 3 warm up laps, 20 x 70- metre sprints and 10 strides, I thought he was joking," laughs Thompson-Allen.

"But surely enough he wasn't and I could almost swear he was smiling when I had finished. I think he likes to surprise people with the amount of fitness required for boundary umpiring."

To be selected to umpire at the National Championships, hopeful candidates had to nominate themselves to Schools Sport Victoria, the body that controls state school sporting competitions. Bjelosevic and Thompson-Allen were then required to umpire six practice matches over a two-day period, which coincided with the Victorian Metro State Team was being selected. During this period of player selection, umpiring officials also observed the performances of participating umpires, and the six umpires travelling with the team were then selected.

The Australian Schools Championships will be held in Canberra in late July and although umpires' game allocations aren't decided until all delegations arrive in Canberra, Bjelosevic believes they are in for a relatively busy schedule. "Last year we umpired 2-3 games per day, making for a pretty exhausting week," explains Bjelosevic.

Depending on the performance review of all umpires participating in the Championships, they will then have the chance to be selected to preside over the finals matches. In the 2010 competition, in his first year of umpiring at a national level, Bjelosevic was selected to take part in the tournament's Grand Final.

Although they may be seen as the untouchable upholders of the rules on field, in reality umpiring for Bjelosevic and Thompson-Allen is an honour rather than a job. Their trip to Canberra will cost the full time students in excess of $1,900 from their own pockets.

To ensure the Western Region Football League would be represented at the Championships, the League Board recently decided to assist with part of the travel costs of the event. At a recent WRFL Executive Board Meeting, the board noted this significant achievement and resolved to contribute $250 to both umpires to assist with those costs associated with the event.

Both Bjelosevic and Thompson-Allen are also running some fundraising initiatives in order to financially assist them in getting to the carnival. For more information please contact the WRFL.

DIVISION ONE

By Leigh Eustace

If there's a fixture you don't want it's playing Spotswood on the rebound.

But what makes today's clash at Murphy Reserve even more intriguing is if there's one team the Woodsmen would want to avoid after last week's loss to Albion, its Port Colts.

The home side has experienced some patchy form over the last month yet last Saturday's win over Sunshine may just prove the spark to get them up for the big rivals from across the bridge.

An afternoon without taking home four points is rare for Spotswood, what's even more uncommon is for those in green and gold to drop back to back games, so we'll be expecting some sort of response.

Seeking redemption on falling short to the Cats last week, combined with confronting the Colts who get under their skin at the best of times, will prove the litmus test for Spotty in 2011.

Meanwhile, many kilometres west, a buoyant Albion will need to keep their mind on the task ahead with a visit from Hoppers Crossing after that special win last Saturday.

The Warriors lost to Altona last week and are currently the unlucky side sitting in sixth on the ladder.

A pack of half a dozen sides has emerged from the rest, but six into five won't work, and Hoppers will be desperate to avoid being the team without a chair when the music stops.

To achieve that, they'll need a solid performance against the Cats – win lose or draw how they play will set up the next month or two as they seek finals action in 2011.

Sunshine is almost out of the finals race, and a loss to the Vikings at Grant Reserve today will make the task all that much tougher, meanwhile Altona has consolidating third in their sights.

The weekend's final two games see Sunny Heights hosting North Footscray and Glenorden trekking north to St Albans.

SEN MVP AWARD

Phillip Jones Tops Leaderboard For Inaugural Award

Radio station SEN has come onboard as a major partner of the Western Region Football League in 2011, providing advertising time on their station which the league utilizes to maintain relationships & exposure for existing sponsors and to attract new partners.

As well as providing SEN with the naming rights to the Runners Tops which can be seen on matchday at all Division One, Division Two & Under 18 fixtures, SEN were also keen to establish a 'Most Valuable Player' Award for Division One.

The award is not just a 'best player' award, as it recognises leadership, versatility, ability to play under pressure, skill and courage, respect for all players and umpires and overall value to their team.

Voted on by the opposition coach, it is an award that recognises those footballers who the players, coaches & league hold in high regard.

Coaches award 3, 2 & 1 vote to the best three players on the opposing side – and at the halfway mark the award has thrown up a few surprises at the top of the leaderboard.

1st – Phillip Jones, Glenorden (20 Votes)

Phil Jones came to Glenorden in 2010 and has been a consistent performer for the club. Having won the side's Best & Fairest Award in his first year with the Hawks – Jones has quickly earned the respect of his playing peers and in 2011 was awarded the side's captaincy.

Although on-field the club's performance hasn't reached great heights, Jones continues to be a shining light for the Hawks. He's versatile for a big man, got safe hands and uses the ball well.

With a lack of depth at the Hawks this year, Jones has been asked to do some big jobs on quality opponents.

Whether he's gone forward as a marking option, or been sent back in a stopping role, Jones stays under notice by opposition coaches.

Senior Coach Justin Menzel says that despite the side's results this season, Jones continues to lead the Hawks with pride.

"He's only twenty-five but he demonstrates the maturity and leadership of a player well beyond his years," says Menzel.

2nd – Nicholas Mallia, Sunshine Heights (17 Votes)

A very talented and respected player at the Sunshine Heights Football Club, Mallia has been at the club since his junior days and has developed into an outstanding utility player that can play and adapt to any position.

Regarded for his professionalism and his commitment to training, Mallia continues to turn down offers for substantial money to leave Ainsworth Reserve, and is one of those players who has red, white and blue running through his veins.

Vince Sposato, Sunshine Heights President, says Mallia is both an outstanding player & clubman, and is always one to acknowledge & respect all members of the club.

"Even though Nick owns his own business as a concreter, which takes up a huge amount of his time, he is always at training and always there on a Saturday morning ready to do battle for his beloved Dragons," says Sposato

"He loves his football and most of all loves his mates and the club he has grown up with. Our younger players look up to him as the club's 'gun' player, and often watch in awe at his talent on the footy field."

"I have known Nick for nine years and have found him to be a true gentleman of the game."

Despite his side's disappointing start to the season, Mallia continues to impress both on & off the field and if last week's result against the Saints is any indication he could well be the man to spark the Dragons into action in the coming rounds.

3rd – Benjamin Foley, Sunshine (14 Votes)

Ben Foley has had another very consistent first half of the year. Without the injuries that have plagued him during the 2009 and 2010 seasons he has managed to put together some very solid performances and is a regular member of Sunshine's best players. Whether it is playing up back or up forward he seems to attract the football. Foley is the sort of player that is happy to play wherever he is needed by the team and shows his leadership qualities week in and week out. A fair and hard at it footballer who puts his body on the line every week, Foley is much loved by his team mates. He thrives on winning the football and using it effectively up the ground.

4th – Jason Butty, Hoppers C. (12 Votes)

Jason Butty has been the main figurehead up forward for the Warriors all season, and with 36 goals to his name has been troubling all backlines that come up against the big man. Having spent previous seasons as a more defensive player, Butty has now become the Warriors main forward target. This season Butty has shown his prowess in contested marking contents, his pack-crashing marks gaining plenty of plaudits from players & spectators alike. Sitting second on the goal-kicking leaderboard behind Shaydon Bloomfield of Albion, Butty is well on his way to the 50-goal milestone in 2011.

5th – Reece Miles, Altona (11 Votes)

At the start of the 2010 season Reece Miles made the decision to search for a club that could help him develop into a better player. After considering many local outfits, Miles warmed to the Altona Football Club due to their commitment to development and the club's continued support of VFL listed players. Miles decided that if he committed to the program on offer at Altona he would be able to improve his game to a level that would be hard to combat from an opposition viewpoint.

Anthony Eames, Senior Coach at Altona, says Miles has been an outstanding contributor to the side and has shown a willingness to improve the areas that he was deficient in a couple of years ago.

"A couple of areas we identified were his accountability on the transition and his work rate inside the defensive fifty, and both of these areas have improved immensely over the last 12 months," says Eames.

"As a result Reece has become a more rounded, consistent player who the opposition taggers find hard to stop – although that said I still believe he can be an even better player in the coming years."

"Reece has a work ethic that has forced our entire senior list to lift their training output and on game day leaves nothing in the tank or to chance. In my eyes he is the player in the competition that if you had a son starting out in footy you would take him to watch and learn from!"

"Reece has matured a lot to become one of our leaders and has gained an unbelievable amount of respect within our club due to his professionalism and willingness to give all he has for his team!"

DIVISION TWO

By Leigh Eustace

In what may turn into a tumultuous fortnight for the Eagles, Yarraville-Seddon are poised to face the 'perfect ten-from-ten' Deer Park this weekend just seven days after conceding their stranglehold on third spot. It only seemed like five minutes ago that the Eagles were seemingly cruising towards a potential Grand Final berth, sitting inside the top three and establishing platform to launch a strong finals campaign from. After falling short last week and swapping ladder rungs with Parkside in the process, they now have to pick up the pieces and try and get back some ascendancy all while confronting the Lions at home. The way they respond will be fascinating.

The victorious Maggies will fly to Laverton to take on the division's other Pies who missed a much needed four points last week to Coburg Districts. Laverton went down by the narrowest of margins and a chance to be equal fifth slipped through their hands. Now, back at home, they have a chance to prove that their improvement justifies a finals appearance, as they aim to claim a big scalp and show they're serious contenders. Despite where they've come from, eighth probably undersells them, but Parkside are on the rise and will be no easy task.

Chasing Parkside is Coburg Districts, who snuck in that one-point win last week, who now sit inside the five and should move to fourth with a win over West Footscray. The Roosters are only behind the Lions on percentage and will be backing themselves to not only match Coburg Districts but get themselves into the five, a place they would like to stay in their relegation year.

Elsewhere we have North Sunshine hosting seventh-placed Wyndhamvale, as the Falcons still dream of a possible finals berth, whereas Braybrook and Caroline Springs face off with both teams desperate for a rare four points.

RESULTS

CENTURION CONDOS

Playing-Coach Reaches Milestone

Deer Park playing-coach James Condos has become the first WRFL player to reach the 100 goal milestone this season.

Condos had 97 goals going into the Round 11 clash against Wyndhamvale and brought up the ton in the ninth minute of the first quarter – a sign of the new recruit's dominance of the Division Two competition this year.

Condos went on to kick four more goals in Deer Park's 108-point win, which kept the Lions on top of the ladder with a perfect 40 points.

Condos is the now the highest goalkicker in Australia this season. He overtook former leader and Omeo and District Football League player Macy Hambrook who has bagged 101 goals this season. Hambrook plays for Omeo-Benambra's Under-16 side, which had a bye on Saturday.

The AFL has compiled a list of the country's highest goalkickers across all leagues, with the most prolific scorer winning a training session at their club hosted by Geelong premierships captain Tom Harley.

Condos's biggest bag this season was 19 goals against North Sunshine in Round Nine, although the gun forward had sixteen at halftime before dragging himself halfway through the third quarter. His lowest return was five goals against Yarraville Seddon back in Round One.

KEY RETURN FOR ALBION

Butina Boosts Cats' Premiership Prospects

Jason Butina could be the ace Albion needs to defend its premiership. But he is not expecting to instantly rediscover the X-factor he possessed before the crushing right ankle injury he sustained mid-way through the 2009 season, despite an impressive display against Spotswood on Saturday.

"I was absolutely shattered (when I got injured) because I love playing my sport, I played for years, and when that happened it was really hard to deal with but I just worked hard and tried to work my way back," said Butina.

The journey back was longer than expected. If Butina's recovery went to plan, he would have a premiership medallion, but the estimated 12 months recovery period ballooned to almost two years after doctors discovered two bones had fused, and he had to undergo surgery a second time.

Butina made his comeback via Albion's reserves on 21 May and played his first senior game since 2009 on 18 June, enjoying a 118-point win against North Footscray.

Coach Marcus Barclay said a goal to Butina in the last quarter against the Red Devils was a significant moment.

"Every player on the ground congratulated him. I think North Footscray were thinking, 'wait a minute, you're 100 points up and you're celebrating'. I think it was more just for him," he said.

Barclay lauded Butina's determination to make his way back into an Albion side jam-packed with talent.

"His training has been unbelievable. He would have to have run 1000 laps I reckon in the last four months. Fitness-wise, he's fantastic. It's almost like a new recruit for us."

Butina won Albion's best-and-fairest award in 2006, playing primarily as a midfielder, but he expects to play out the rest of this season up forward. A proven goalkicker, Butina will add another dangerous dimension to what is already a formidable forward line featuring Shaydon Bloomfield and Romain Grenville. But the man himself is just happy to be out on the park.

"I don't mind pushing up forward around the wing, I'm just happy to be playing again, where ever they see a good fit for me I'll be happy to play there."

UMPIRES CORNER

News From The Umpires' Association

Each Wednesday night, the WRFL's umpires have a short meeting. It is held at Scovell Reserve and is usually attended by more than eighty of the league's running umpires. It starts at about 7:20 pm and goes for about thirty minutes.

Prior to the meeting certain activities have been held at the ground. At about 5 pm the cars begin to arrive and a slow trickle of umpires begins to walk towards the change rooms. At quarter past five Terry McGarity wanders out onto the ground with his arms full of brightly coloured witches hats. Strategically, he places them across the oval taking up the majority of the cricket playing field. These are set up for the field and boundary umpires who, after hitting the track at 5:45 pm, do a variety of stretches and then run, run and run over the next hour or more under the watchful eye of Terry McGarity with assistance at times from Dean Portelli and Paul Dimartino.

The goalies tend to stick to the confines of the soccer pitch although there have been times when they have been brave enough to venture a little further a field. At the same time as Terry McGarity is plotting a path for the speedsters and the plodders, another figure walks to the soccer pitch and distributes blue cones, skipping ropes, pink bouncy balls and a handful of flags. Graeme Hodgart, coach of the goalies, gives his charges a variety of exercises, running, walking, stretching and activities to help their fitness and sharpen up their skills.

The group of goalies begins their training on Wednesdays at 5:30 pm, although some have been out walking for ten or fifteen minutes beforehand, and finish at about 6:20 pm. At least once or twice the field and boundary umpires, much to the frustration of the flag wavers, make sure that they accidentally invade at least one section of the soccer pitch ignoring the sanctity marked out by the blue cones. (For those who have not been to Scovell, the field and boundaries use yellow, orange and white cones which are distinctly different to the dark blue variety.) After leaving the track and showering, the goalies' group has their own meeting in which they are lectured about aspects of goal umpiring. Questions are posed and answered in the twenty minutes that they meet together. Then it's time to grab some food from the canteen and a drink and relax while the other umpires begin to come from the track and the showers and into the room and do much the same.

In the main 7:20 pm meeting, it's usually Shane Carland in charge, explaining various aspects of field umpiring and highlighting good and poor positioning and decision making. Shane usually finishes his talk by reading out the Division One appointments for the coming weekend.

Then there's the opportunity for Henry McFerran and Terry O'Donnell to pass on important information to the umpiring group. It may be in relation to tribunal matters or issues about rules or regulations that need to be addressed by the WRFL Umpires' Association. It's not always good news that they share but highlights, promotions and outstanding performances are often brought to the attention of all.

Then John Manikis, who is social secretary, conducts Powerball where one Gold Member of the WRFLUA is lucky enough to have his or her name drawn out to win a small cash prize. Social announcements are made and the drawing of the small raffle is a focal point of the night. The first prize is always a generous meat tray from Eddy The Butcher from Mason Street, Newport. This and many of the three or four prizes on the night are regularly won by goal umpires because they tend to buy the most tickets.

All the appointments for the weekend are then handed out to the umpires who begin to leave although there are those who like to stay and talk about umpiring, forthcoming games, social issues and the like. By 9 pm the last few officials are beginning to turn off the lights and head for the lonely cars parked spasmodically down Scovell Crescent. One of the last to leave is Paul Battaglia who is well-known throughout the WRFL for his goal umpiring but also his very friendly and helpful nature. Not everyone connected to the umpires actually knows that it will be Paul that drives to Scovell Reserve the next day and spend more than a few hours making all the rooms presentable for the guys and girls of umpiring when they arrive for the next training session on the following Monday.

Proudly Sponsored by Werribee Tigers Football Club

Hoppers Crossing have finally knocked Altona off the top of the Division One ladder, after running out 39 point winners in a top-of-the-table clash last weekend. Having spent the first half of the season a game behind the Vikings, the win was enough to propel last year's premiers into top spot on the ladder, making for what will be an interesting and exciting final eight weeks of football.

While the margin suggests the Warriors are a class above the next best side, one does have to remember that Altona had gone 27 days without a competitive football match. It's a fixturing nightmare that will rear its head again later in the year when the Vikings have two games off in the penultimate & final rounds of Season 2011.

In other games last weekend St Albans stamped their authority on third spot with a resounding 140 point win away at Sunshine Heights, while Spotswood ended Albion's three game winning streak with a comprehensive 48 point win.

This weekend Hoppers Crossing will look to end Albion's hopes of playing finals football when the two sides meet at Parsons Reserve. After dropping the first five games of the year the Cats had enjoyed a recent run of good form – but will have their work cut out against the Warriors who have swept all challengers aside in the past month of football.

Altona will get the chance to play themselves back into form with what should be a 'safe' home game against Sunshine, although if ever there was a time that Sunshine could challenge the once ladder-leaders it would be now after the Viking's massive mid-season break.

In the final game of the round the Division's two battlers go head-to-head, as Sunshine Heights host North Footscray. Both sides have struggled for the best part of ten weeks and this weekend will at least give one side a little joy in what has already been a tough, long season.

Sunshine Heights got the spoils when they last met in Round Two, and although the Red Devils will be desperate to climb off the bottom of the ladder, the Dragons should be too strong.

For the record, North Footscray need to win by just over fifty points to climb off the bottom of the ladder – a tough, tough ask given they've only managed fifteen-odd goals in their seven games to date.

FROST IN FORM

Seagulls Reaping Rewards Of Development Academy

When Williamstown's Jack Frost kept Port Melbourne power forward Callum Sinclair to just one goal in the VFL reserves clash last month, it was a sign the young defender was beginning to find some form.

When he then kept Sinclair, a former VFL team of the year member, goalless the week after, there was no doubt about it. Frost was starting to hit his straps.

But his momentum was interrupted when he was sidelined for three weeks with sinus issues. Last Saturday was his second game back and Frost is keen to make an impression.

Williamstown's development coach Justin Plapp said the 19 year old had the attributes of an AFL footballer.

"If you're talking about the modern AFL footballer, Jack's got all the makings to be heading in that direction," Plapp said.

"He's a tall, very agile, key position player that can play at both ends of the ground. Jack's development since he's come to the club has been on a bit of an increase since round one."

Frost is one of four players who have come out of the under-18s last year who have been identified as major talents at Williamstown. The other three are Dale Hoghton, Stephen Witkowski and Dylan Conway.

All four are in the Liam Picken Academy, which is designed to equip young players with AFL-ready skills but also to make its participants more well-rounded individuals.

"I've never heard of anything like it at a footy club," Frost said of the academy. If nothing works out with footy I think it's a good basis to have when you come out."

But Frost certainly has an AFL career still in his sights, which is one reason why he decided to sign with Williamstown

"Because of Williamstown's strong record in the last couple of years, I thought going to Williamstown was probably the best option for my development and under the guidance of Peter German and Justin Plapp, I thought it was a good move," he said.

Frost said he struggled to meet performance targets set by the team early in the season, but has found his feet in the past few weeks.

The 195cm defender from the Sandringham Dragons has a deceptive burst of speed and has a touch of Dustin Fletcher about him with his wiry frame and athleticism.

He took part in the AFL state combine last year and was invited to train with the Western Bulldogs at the start of this year.

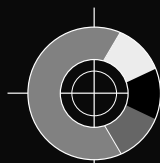

"He's going to be a kid that we're trying to develop as much as possible because I would have thought that AFL clubs would look at him and say he's a good size, he's a good shape, he's got all the natural abilities that you probably want from an AFL footballer," Plapp said.

"We've played him on players who have played a really high level and he's done really well on them.

Plapp coached Box Hill's reserves to a premiership last year, but said he wouldn't be judged on team success, but on moulding individuals, particularly those in their second or third year that have struggled to crack into the senior team.

"You're not really manufacturing a team to win you're actually just developing individual players," he said.

DRAFT PROSPECTS RISE

Hoskin-Elliot Impresses At National Championships

Western Jets footballer Will Hoskin-Elliot has done his draft hopes no harm after he played an outstanding game for Vic Metro in the AFL Under 18 Championships.

Hoskin-Elliot was making his Vic Metro debut after some minor early season injuries kept him out of the team.

He was able to quickly pick up the pace of the game, kicking one goal and having eight inside fifties in the 10-point victory over Western Australia.

Vic Metro coach Rohan Welsh said it was a great debut.

“He took some really good overhead marks and backed back into packs when he had to,” Welsh said. “He worked himself to exhaustion during the game. Will has all the attributes of a really good footballer. He uses the ball well and is hard at it.”

The weekend’s performance comes on the back of impressive form for the Western Jets in the TAC Cup.

Hoskin-Elliot has been named in the best players in four of the six games he has played, with a dominating performance against NSW ACT Rams the season stand-out.

Jets coach Steve Kretiuik said improved consistency was allowing Hoskin-Elliot to have a great impact on the game across all four quarters.

“He had always showed glimpses of what he was capable off. Last year he would play three good quarters and then drop off a little in another,” Kretiuik said.

“It’s a real credit to him on where he is at now. He has worked really hard on his fitness in the off-season and I think that showed last week on the big ground in WA”

“We couldn’t wait till he played Vic Metro, we were expecting him to have a good game which he did.”

With outstanding overhead marking, a lethal kick and the versatility to play all over the ground, Kretiuik has likened his playing style to that of Fremantle Dockers’ captain Matthew Pavlich. Hoskin-Elliot is sure to be on the radar of a number of AFL clubs come draft time.

“If he can reproduce a few of the efforts we have seen from him then he will be as good a chance as anyone. He just needs to finish off his year really strongly,” Kretiuik said.

It could be a double celebration for the Jets as Adam Kennedy also begins to push his name as a draft chance.

After taking up football late Kennedy is starting to make up for lost time with some impressive performances in his last TAC Cup season.

The match against Western Australia was Kennedy’s performance of the championships, and he will be looking to maintain a similar level of form for the rest of the season.

Kretiuik is hopeful Kennedy will be looked at by recruiters.

“He really deserves to get somewhere with his footy. He is a tireless worker and a great kid and has come such a long way from when he started. It’s a great testament to him,” Kretiuik said.

DIVISION TWO (U18)

Proudly Sponsored by Werribee Tigers Football Club

Plenty of surprises in the Division Two competition last weekend, with the biggest being the form of the St Albans seconds side who recorded their first win of Season 2011 in a thriller at home to Caroline Springs.

Last week I had been talking up the Lakers' prospects of winning back-to-back games against a St Albans side who were averaging just two goals a week in their first eleven games of football. However the Saints must have sensed they were a real chance last weekend, and despite trailing for the best part of four quarters were in touch with the Lakers right through to the dying stages. In the end it was a two-goal to one final quarter that ended up being the difference between the sides, with the Saints sneaking home by the narrowest of margins.

The surprises continued around the grounds with Wyndhamvale giving Deer Park a real scare. The difference between the sides in the opening half of the season suggested the Lions would cruise home by a 30-40 point winning margin. However the Falcons had other ideas, kicking twelve goals to nine after quarter time to fall just eight points short at the final siren.

While that game was much closer than expected, the Albanvale and Hoppers Crossing fixture was quite the reverse, in what we thought would be a game won with the final kick of the day. With both teams locked at six wins apiece it was the chance for one side to get a stranglehold on a finals berth – and it was Albanvale that took the ascendancy from the outset hammering home fifteen goals to five in the final three terms.

This week spells further trouble for Hoppers Crossing as they host Deer Park who may as well be on the rebound after last weekend's scare. In other games Albanvale should firm up their status as the third best side in the competition at home to St Albans, while Wyndhamvale will take a fair bit of belief into their home fixture against ladder-leaders Point Cook after last week's narrow loss. The Bulldogs are coming off the bye so if ever the Falcons are going to catch them offguard, it is this weekend.

In the final game of the round Caroline Springs & Altona go head-to-head with both teams desperate to record win number three of Season 2011.

PADDY'S PROFILES

By Patrick Comerford

PHOENIX HUNT is a child of many talents. Growing up with a New Zealand background in Australia, the 11 year-old was torn between choosing to play his homeland's national code, Rugby Union, or joining the dark side and venturing into the world of Aussie Rules football. Hunt couldn't decide between the sports, and has decided to play both with amazing success.

While many would think growing up playing a different code would hinder his progression as a football player, it appears for Hunt it has done nothing but benefit the pacy onballer. Rugby has helped him strength wise by helping him learn to take a hit and get straight up. It has also helped his agility and reflexes on the footy field.

Rugby players are often renowned for their ability to see further than 180 degrees – and always being aware of their surroundings. And you can see this in Hunt when he plays; he always knows what's around him and always appears to be one step ahead of the play.

"I've found footy complements my rugby with fitness kicking and awareness, and rugby complements my footy with aggression, hardness at the ball, and tackling," says Hunt.

In a career that stretches just over fifty games, Hunt has achieved phenomenal success. Not only has 'Kiwi' already got a premiership to his name, he was also Best on Ground on the day and took out his side's Best & Fairest in the same season. To top it off Hunt was also selected for the Under-12 Victorian Rugby Union side.

However it wasn't always as easy for the youngster, who was a little lost in his first few outings on the footy field.

"I didn't know what to do," says Hunt.

"I kept telling my team mates they were offside!"

Building on last year's success, Hunt was selected for the WRFL Under-12 side this season and thoroughly enjoyed the experience of playing a higher grade of football.

"It was very exciting playing with players you usually play against," says Hunt.

"I made so many friends and I am thankful for the opportunity that was given to me."

Cam Atkins, WRFL Interleague Coach, says Hunt was amongst the best players who ran around for the WRFL at the carnival.

"We initially saw Phoenix as the team's terrier up forward, capitalizing on his explosiveness & speed to put pressure on the opposition when the ball was within our attacking fifty," says Atkins.

"As the game went on and fresh legs were required in the middle, Phoenix was one of the players we moved to the midfield and challenged to 'impact the contest'."

"His unquestionable hardness at the ball combined with quick run and carry of the football enabled the team to open up the game and move the ball forward freely. Phoenix was one of our top five players on the day and in an age where speed is such a highly rated football commodity a big future awaits."

Hunt no doubt has success ahead of him in whatever sport he decides to pursue. Let's just hope he's running out on the MCG for one of the Victorian AFL clubs sometime in the next decade, and not the newly-formed Rebels over the road at AAMI Park.
